Since joining JMW's Asia-Pacific team in 2012, Ali Roberts has coached leaders with big ambitions and commitments to effectively engage their people in leading strategic transformation initiatives for their organisations. Ali provides consulting and leadership development support to a wide range of organisations in the Asia Pacific region as they pursue significantly elevated levels of performance and results.

One of Ali's key capabilities is working at all levels and functions across the business, to ensure the mindset shifts and alignment necessary for delivering unprecedented performance.

Ali's areas of expertise include:

- Collaborative project development, implementation coaching and successful delivery
- Team alignment and delivery of breakthrough goals
- High-performance project team formulation
- Leadership development throughout an organisation or team

Ali has worked in the water, oil and gas, infrastructure, and energy industries. Her expertise includes:

- Developing the foundation of alignment across all levels in an organisation that is required to support major initiatives
- Eliciting the commitment from managers and employees necessary to implement strategic change
- Coaching managers and cross-functional groups in delivering new levels of performance
- Creating an environment that calls for people to examine the prevailing views that impede organisational ambition

Ali also designs and leads executive development programs to enable executives and senior level managers to make a far greater impact throughout their organisation. In this area, her expertise includes:

- Transforming the culture and performance of organisations
- Custom designing programs to meet an organisation's specific needs and goals
- Enhancing individuals existing leadership strengths while expanding the skills and capabilities needed to drive breakthrough results and establish new standards for performance
- Coaching program participants in the effective implementation of their training against their real-time challenges and commitments
